SELF ASSESSMENT · FOR UBER, BOLT AND OTHER APP DRIVERS

Your tax return, sorted. For private hire drivers.

Upload your bank statement. Daybook's AI sorts your weekly payouts, fuel, insurance and licences, and tells you why. You check the few it isn't sure of. Nothing goes to HMRC until you say so.

SOUND FAMILIAR?

You'd rather be driving than doing paperwork.

Uber pays every week, Bolt now and then, and it all lands in the same account as everything else.

Fuel, private hire insurance, PCO licences, servicing, car washes, the congestion charge. What can I claim?

Which of my spending is for work, and which is just me?

Making Tax Digital has started

Under Making Tax Digital for Income Tax, sole traders and landlords keep digital records and send HMRC an update every quarter, then finalise the year. Who it applies to, and when:

April 2026
Qualifying income over
£50,000

April 2027
Qualifying income over
£30,000

April 2028
Qualifying income over
£20,000

Qualifying income is self-employment plus property income, before expenses. Dates and thresholds as published by HMRC at the time of printing; check the current guidance before relying on them:

HOW IT WORKS

From bank statement to tax return

1

Upload your statement

A PDF, a CSV, or a photo of a paper statement from your bank.

2

The AI sorts it

Every line goes into one of HMRC's categories, with a short reason you can read.

3

You check a few

Only the lines it isn't sure of are flagged. Your answers are remembered for next year.

4

HMRC works out the tax

Daybook sends the figures and asks HMRC for its calculation, so the estimate is HMRC's own.

5

You file, or your accountant does

Only after a person confirms the figures and ticks the declaration.

HMRC's categories are the boxes on the self-employment pages of your tax return: car and travel, insurance, phone and so on.

From Ahmed's year: what Daybook did with some of the lines

ON THE STATEMENT	SORTED AS	WHY
UBER DRIVER PAYOUT	IN Income	Weekly payout from Uber for your trips.
BOLT DRIVER PAYOUT	IN Income	Payout from Bolt for your trips.
FUEL	COST Car and travel	Fuel for the car you drive for work.
PRIVATE HIRE INSURANCE	COST Insurance	Needed to carry passengers, so it's allowable.

SERVICE AND TYRES	COST Car and travel	Keeping the car on the road for work.
CONGESTION CHARGE	COST Car and travel	Paid while you were working.
CLOTHES SHOP	OUT Kept out	Everyday clothes are personal, even if you wear them to work.
SUPERMARKET	OUT Kept out	Food shopping is personal.
HMRC SELF ASSESSMENT	OUT Kept out	Paying your tax bill isn't a business cost.
DASH CAM	CHECK Ahmed checks	Business equipment if it's for driving work. Is it?
AMAZON MKTP UK	CHECK Ahmed checks	A phone holder or charger for the car, or personal?

Shortened from the fictional demo. Company names appear only as they would on a bank statement; Daybook has no link with those companies.

A person signs off. Always.

The AI sorts and explains. HMRC's own calculation works out the tax. Nothing is filed until a person confirms it: you, or your accountant if you have one. Every change and approval is recorded with who did it and when.

TRY IT NOW

Have a look round Ahmed's year

The demo is the real Daybook, with the year of Ahmed Rahman, a self-employed Uber and Bolt driver, already in it. It works on a phone or a computer.

OPENS IN	Ahmed Rahman Private Hire

- Opens straight into Ahmed's own workspace
- Everyone and everything in it is fictional
- Read-only: open any page; any change is refused
- Resets every 30 minutes

Things to try

- Look through Ahmed's year: Uber and Bolt payouts, fuel, insurance and licences, sorted with reasons.
- See personal spending kept out of the business figures.
- Open the lines flagged for Ahmed: a dash cam and an Amazon order.
- Try to change something. The demo is read-only, so it's refused.

Real sessions in the software with fictional people, filing to HMRC's sandbox (HMRC's test service). New videos are being added; if one isn't up yet, its page says so.

GOT AN ACCOUNTANT?

They can use Daybook for you

Accountancy practices can run Daybook for their clients, under the practice's own name and logo. You upload your statements in your accountant's app, they check what the AI flagged, and they file for you once you've both agreed the figures. Show them this leaflet, or point them to daybook.co.uk.

TODAY AND NEXT

What Daybook does now, and what's coming

AVAILABLE NOW

- Making Tax Digital for Income Tax: sole traders and landlords, including UK property
- Quarterly updates, and HMRC's own tax estimate during the year
- The final declaration that finishes your year, sent only after you tick to confirm
- A job, pensions, savings or dividends alongside, for the full picture
- Learns from what you confirmed last year
- VAT-registered? VAT returns too: the nine boxes are worked out by fixed rules, never the AI

COMING, OR NOT YET

- Payroll, for when you take someone on: in pilot
- Corporation Tax, for limited companies: in pilot
- Neither files with HMRC yet: filing is in testing

Live filing

The demo and the videos use HMRC's sandbox, its test service, so nothing real is filed. Filing for real needs HMRC production access for the Daybook service you use: ask us where that stands before relying on it this year.

Want Daybook for your own return?

Email us and tell us what you do. We'll tell you how to get started and where live filing stands.
